

FORGIVE OTHERS

Un-forgiveness will complicate our daily lives.

As the old saying goes: "Don't let someone dictate how we feel today."

Forgiving others will keep evil from entering our lives.

Forgiving a person for what they have done or said does not necessarily mean reconciliation or condoning their actions or words.

Un-forgiveness can and will open the door to anger which will allow evil to enter which will cause evil thoughts and evil words come from a person's mouth and evil physical actions that does come from GOD.

Here is a true story about forgiveness.

About forty years ago I was sitting at a table with some people I knew, and a young woman that I didn't know was holding a baby that was less than a year old. I was introduced to her and a young man sitting next to her they said was the father of the baby.

Later that evening I was told that the father of the baby had got out of jail a few days prior and saw the baby for the first time that day. They were not married and I do not know if she was a Christian. Then I was told how he impregnated this teenager girl.

It was right after dark in the summer. She was walking past an open area and he came out and forced her into the open area and there was a building nearby that had steps going down to a door. This was too far from the street for anyone to hear her yells for help. He forced her down the steps and repeatedly raped her until the sun came up then released her. The police was called when she got home and he was arrested and spent almost two years in prison.

It appears normal in the world today that if a female were impregnated from a rape she would get an abortion. If a religious GOD-fearing female were raped would she have an abortion. Maybe she could have the baby and give it up for adoption. Maybe keep the baby and raise the child to worship the one true GOD.

Could you forgive this man?

Was she obligated to forgive him and be around him or let him be supportive of the child?

I understand that nobody is perfect or without sin.

From 613 Commandments

132 The rapist must marry the maiden (if she chooses) Deut. 22:29

133 He is not allowed to divorce her Deut. 22:29

Deut 22:25-29

<sup>25</sup> But if a man find a betrothed damsel in the field, and the man force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her shall die: <sup>26</sup> But unto the damsel thou shalt do nothing; there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour, and slayeth him, even so is this matter: <sup>27</sup> For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried, and there was none to save her. <sup>28</sup> If a man find a damsel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found; <sup>29</sup> Then the man that lay with her shall give unto the damsel's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife; because he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days.

Pray and remove the wall from in front of you.
Step out of the closet and breath the air of freedom.
May HaShem's love, joy, peace and happiness be with you.
